LOCAL HISTORY

GLOBAL IMPACT

OSWEGO COUNTY'S rich heritage is told in museums and historic sites across the county. Fort Ontario is the only U.S. military site to play a part in every American campaign – from the French and Indian War in the colonial era to current deployments in the Middle East.

It served as the Fort Ontario Emergency Refugee Shelter during World War II when nearly 1,000 Holocaust refugees came to Oswego as guests of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It's been said that this is where the Holocaust first came to America because citizens and the press first heard personal accounts of Nazi persecution from its victims. Stories of the war and its atrocities then went from the back to the front pages of newspapers. Learn more about the only U.S. refugee shelter of WWII at the Safe Haven Holocaust Refugee Shelter Museum.

With the most Underground Railroad sites in the state (according to the National Register of Historic Places), Oswego County pays homage to this history at the Starr Clark Tin Shop and Underground Railroad Museum. It is housed in the original tin shop, which was a central gathering place for residents and a known center for abolitionist activity in Mexico. The building has been restored and contains an interpretive display about this chapter in American history and how local citizens helped freedom-seekers.

The Half-Shire Historical Society is located in the former Richland Elementary School building. The group holds special exhibits on rural farm life from 1800-1950, along with extensive genealogical research materials and a historical collection of the county's northern towns.

Oswego County's residents have long played a role in shaping American history. From a position in Mexico, NY, Revolutionary War hero and American spy Silas Town overheard British Brig. Gen. St. Leger's plans to attack Fort Stanwix in Rome, NY. He was able to forewarn the troops, thus staving off the attack and possibly changing the tide of the war.

Stationed at Fort Ontario in the early 19th century, James Fenimore Cooper drew inspiration from Oswego County's scenic beauty and included descriptions of it in his works.

Oswego was the home of Dr. Mary Walker, who served in the Civil War and became the first and only woman to be awarded the U.S. Congressional Medal of Honor. More recently, Oswego native Noel Francisco served as Solicitor General of the United States from 2017 to 2020, becoming the first Asian American to be confirmed to the post.

FORT ONTARIO

1 E. Fourth St., Oswego NY

The fourth and current Fort Ontario State Historic Site shows the fort as it was between 1863-1872. There are two guardhouses, a powder magazine, a storehouse, an enlisted men's barracks, an Army office building and unfurnished officer's quarters.

The fort had been destroyed and rebuilt during the French and Indian War, the American Revolutionary War and the War of 1812. It served as an Army hospital during World War I and a refugee shelter during WWII before being decommissioned in 1946.

FORT BREWERTON

9 U.S. Rte. 11, Central Square NY

Known as the "pre-historic capital of New York State," the Oneida Lake and River area was home to Indigenous Americans for thousands of years as these waterways were important east-west travel routes.

In the mid-18th century, the British also considered the strategic location ideal and, with permission from the Iroquois League, constructed an eight-point star fortification that housed approximately 130 soldiers and their supplies. The original fort no longer exists, but earthen embankments outline its location on the site.

BIRTHPLACE OF U.S. REFUGEE POLICY

REFUGEES FIND 'SAFE HAVEN' AT FORT ONTARIO, OSWEGO, NY

By Paul Lear, Fort Ontario State Historic Site Manager

Upon establishment of the War Refugee Board (WRB) by order of President Franklin D. Roosevelt on January 22, 1944, the United States became the first country with a refugee policy. The WRB was tasked with providing rescue and relief to the remaining Jews of Nazi-occupied Europe. WRB urged America's allies to accept refugees in their countries and territories, but received little cooperation when the U.S. failed to set an example by establishing its own camps. Nazi officials also mocked the allies for their hypocrisy and antisemitism and cited the United States for its discrimination of African-Americans and other minority groups.

To demonstrate that the U.S. was serious about helping the Jews of Europe, President Roosevelt chose Fort Ontario in Oswego, NY as the site of an "emergency refugee shelter." On August 5, 1944, nearly 1,000 Holocaust victims, who all signed papers agreeing to return to Europe when the war ended, arrived at Fort Ontario. Many had applied for visas to emigrate to the U.S. and were awaiting a decision. Some had relatives living in America, and others had children serving in the U.S. military. Few had homes or families to return to.

The Fort Ontario refugees were the focus of a national controversy on the part of anti-immigration, antisemitic and anti-refugee members of Congress and American citizens who opposed their entry into the country from the start and tried to force them back to Europe when the war ended. Despite efforts on their behalf by sympathetic WRB officials, private agencies, Oswegonians, the refugees' families and influential friends such as Eleanor Roosevelt, it took 18 months before a solution was found to the dilemma at Fort Ontario. On December 22, 1945, President Harry S. Truman directed the Secretary of State and Attorney General in a general order to adjust the status of the Fort Ontario refugees and allow those who wished to remain in the U.S. to stay.

The Fort Ontario refugees were the first group of refugees allowed into the U.S. outside the quota system based on national origins established with the Immigration Act of 1924. Historians have long considered the 1948 Act of Congress allowing the admission of 250,000 displaced Europeans from WWII, and another 400,000 people after that, to be the first refugee legislation enacted by the U.S. government. Many who have re-discovered the Fort Ontario Emergency Refugee Shelter now consider it to be the true birthplace of U.S. Refugee Policy.

SAFE HAVEN MUSEUM

Safe Haven Holocaust Refugee Shelter Museum is located a short walk or drive from Fort Ontario State Historic Site in Oswego, NY.

It occupies an original quartermaster building and is dedicated to keeping alive the stories of the nearly 1,000 European refugees who arrived as "guests" of President Franklin D. Roosevelt during the Holocaust of World War II.

The museum was completely renovated in 2020 and now contains an introduction movie, artifacts, state-of-the-art video screens and stations which tell the stories of the refugees from their beginnings in Europe to their struggles during Nazi occupation to their "rescue" at Fort Ontario leading to a life of freedom in America.

DIVING

Lake Ontario, Oswego County NY

Oswego County's waters offer many scuba diving opportunities, as some historians estimate there are over 160 shipwrecks off the county's coast in Lake Ontario and several more in Oneida Lake.

Ford Shoals is the site of at least five shipwrecks, including the New York State David W. Mills Submerged Cultural Preserve and Dive Site – the state's first official dive preserve in the Great Lakes. The 19th century cargo vessel slammed into the shoals on a foggy August day in 1919. Today, on a clear, calm day, the wreck can be seen from the water's surface.

Explore the wreck of the Mary Kay, which occurred in September 1988 when two 9-foot waves crashed over the tugboat's stern and filled the engine room, causing it to sink.

Learn about the 1993 wreck of the Harborfest Houseboat that lost its battle against 8-foot waves that had been kicked up by northwest winds.

Bring your gear and dive into the captivating histories of Oswego County's shipwrecks. Diving is possible May through October. May to early June and late summer are the best times to dive.

MARINE SANCTUARY

In April 2019, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) announced its intent to consider the designation of a new national marine sanctuary in the Great Lakes. With input from the public, stakeholders and New York State, it published a draft environmental impact statement and a draft management plan to support the proposed sanctuary in eastern Lake Ontario and the Thousand Island region of the St. Lawrence River.

With this designation, NOAA would manage, research, interpret and improve public access to a nationally significant collection of maritime heritage resources including historic shipwrecks. The proposed sanctuary would celebrate the area's unique marine history and provide a national stage for promoting tourism and recreation.

With five locations listed as "Important Bird Areas" with Audubon New York, a state office of the National Audubon Society, there are plenty of sites to spot a variety of bird species.

At Derby Hill Bird Observatory, migrating raptors, waterfowl and songbirds soar above the bluff overlooking the southeastern shore of Lake Ontario. Happy Valley Wildlife Management Area is a diverse habitat of ponds, fields and forests where birders can spot woodland birds, songbirds and some waterfowl and raptor species. Toad Harbor Swamp is a wetland area on the north shore of Oneida Lake where warblers, heron and waterfowl can be found.

Many bird species can be found along the Oswego River Canal, including the elusive osprey and bald eagle. Migratory waterfowl and gulls congregate in the Oswego Harbor and near the dams in Oswego, Minetto, Fulton and Phoenix.

DERBY HILL

One of the premiere hawk migration areas in the northeastern United States, Derby Hill Bird Observatory counts an average 40,000 raptors as they migrate northward each spring. Hawks, eagles and vultures are the main attraction, but impressive numbers of snow geese, red-winged blackbirds, common grackles, blue jays and Baltimore orioles can also be seen migrating here.

Sanctuary headquarters are located at the top of the hill on a bluff overlooking Lake Ontario. A series of trails run south from there – across fields, a swamp and woodlands. There is a boardwalk through the wet area and trails are open year-round.

Prior to this, golfers fashioned mounds of wet sand to elevate the ball. Grant received the world’s first patent for the golf tee in 1899 and his creation continues to serve as a blueprint for today’s wooden and plastic tees.

RECREATIONAL ACTIVITIES BY STATE DEC LANDS

French explorer Samuel de Champlain described Oswego County’s landscape as “a very pleasing and fine country, watered by numerous small streams, two small rivers which empty into said lake [Ontario] and a number of ponds and prairies..” His description still holds true four centuries later.

Explore our great outdoors with these activities. Go to www.dec.ny.gov for more information about the state’s Motorized Access Program for People with Disabilities. NYSDEC primitive camping regulations apply and snowmobile access is restricted to town roads in most Wildlife Management Areas (WMAs). # FRESH POWDER IN THE SNOWBELT

RENOWNED as a winter wonderland, Oswego County is the perfect destination for snowmobilers to enjoy the season. The fun begins after the close of big game hunting season – which typically starts in early December – and continues through March, sometimes even into April!

Thanks to lake effect snow coming off Great Lake Ontario, the average snowfall around the Tug Hill Plateau area is over 180 inches – yes, that’s 15 feet! This weather phenomenon occurs when cold winter winds come down from the north and cross over the warmer waters of the Great Lakes, creating localized snow bands which drop fresh powder over the region.

All that snow offers plenty of coverage for Oswego County’s extensive trail network which includes roughly 400 miles of official snowmobile trails. Of these, 245 are designated as Class A Corridor Trails – major travel routes connecting to over 10,000 miles of trails across the state and providing access to popular destinations, services and businesses. With well over a dozen trail heads and parking areas, visitors will find easy trail access to this network.

This network offers plenty of options for trail rides, from quick jaunts to long-range runs. A mix of long, wide straightaways and rolling curves, trails wind through snow covered forests and around frozen ponds to offer riders a peaceful getaway. From the wild backcountry to groomed routes, everywhere you look the scenery is nothing short of incredible.

Trails are maintained by dedicated volunteers from area snowmobile clubs who work year-round to ensure a safe and enjoyable experience for all riders. They groom the trails, remove obstacles and debris, post signs and make necessary repairs. They publish a trail map every year highlighting local services and businesses and plan community events, giving people the opportunity to learn more about the sport.

Riders can help ensure trail safety by wearing NYSDOT-rated or SNELL-certified helmets, following trail rules and best practices. Know your signals and relay them to other sledders. Observe signage and safe speeds. Respect wildlife and other trail users.

Snowmobiles must be registered and insured to operate on public and private property. Visitors who register their sleds in their home state can use the “New York State Registration for Out-of-State” service to get a 15-day registration they can use immediately. Don’t forget the state’s Free Snowmobile Weekend, held annually the first full weekend of March. Snowmobile registrations are waived for Canadian and out-of-state riders during those two days; however, sleds still must be registered in the home state.

Whether it’s for a day or a season, warm up your sled and take to the trails in Oswego County this winter.

GEAR UP & RIDE

ATV & MOTOCROSS

ENJOY A “down and dirty” outdoor adventure on ATV/UTV trails and motocross racetracks in Oswego County.

Two ATV clubs maintain over 100 miles of trails to ensure fun, safe riding for everyone and maintain environmentally-sound trail networks. Trails run through forests, fields and mud bog areas, over bridges and small hills and along old railroad beds. Whether following a flat, easy path or a more challenging and invigorating trail, each ride is a scenic adventure.

In northern Oswego County, club trails, picnic areas and camping sites are open to members only. Individual and family memberships are available, as are day passes for riding in September. Southwestern trails cross both public and private lands and club membership is strongly encouraged. A trail map is provided with each single and family membership.

Joining a club is a great way to meet other riders and learn more about this fun, family-friendly activity. To sign up or find out about club events and activities, see the opposite page for contact information. Please note that all ATVs and UTVs must be registered and insured to use the trail system. Out-of-state papers are honored.

Amp up the adventure with competitive racing or professional training on a prime motocross track. A physically demanding and mentally challenging sport, motocross sends riders over rough terrain with hills, jumps and other obstacles for them to navigate. No two courses are alike and Oswego County is home to two racetracks and a training course.

Whether you prefer motoring through the great outdoors on an ATV or UTV, or the thrill of two-wheeled racing excitement on a challenging obstacle course, Oswego County is a great place to ride.

HOOKED ON ADVENTURE

OSWEGO COUNTY is the place to fish all year long! Well known for the annual Salmon Run in the fall season, Oswego County offers a host of other fisheries that pick up when the run is over. Winter weather brings on steelhead and ice fishing. Offering several areas of thick ice, Oneida Lake and Sandy Pond are ideal locations for safe ice fishing.

After a long, cold winter in the depths of Lake Ontario, brown trout are on the move. The action heats up in the southeast corner known as Mexico Bay where the water is shallow and quick to warm. This attracts bait fish which, in turn, attract the big browns and other game fish – making it a great spot to reel in a premium spring catch.

Come summer, thousands of anglers flock to Oswego County for incredible and diverse fishing experiences. Lake Ontario holds healthy populations of Chinook and coho salmon, brown trout, lake trout, rainbow trout and the elusive Atlantic salmon. In addition, large and small mouth bass can be caught along the Oswego River, while other Lake Ontario tributaries yield ample walleye, Northern pike, carp and brown trout. Oneida Lake is well known for its incredible walleye, yellow perch and bass fishing opportunities.

With more than 50 licensed charter captains and river guides operating out of marinas and boat launches in Oswego County's waters, there is no shortage of expertise to help novice anglers reel in a real fish story.

See p. 62-63 for a list of marinas & boat launches.

SALMON RIVER

Pulaski, Altmar, Orwell, Redfield, NY

Offering some of the best sportfishing in the country, the Salmon River stretches 17 miles from the Lighthouse Hill Reservoir in Altmar to Port Ontario where it empties into Great Lake Ontario. Twelve miles of public fishing rights along the river invite anglers the world over to test their skills against this mighty fishery.

Anglers reel in Chinook and coho salmon, steelhead, brown trout, Atlantic salmon as well as small and large mouth bass. Averaging 10 to 15 pounds, Chinook salmon caught here are large, aggressive fighters and pose a challenge to anglers who dare to drop a line.

This recreational fishery is sustained by NYSDEC's robust fish stocking program. Each year, the agency releases over one million pounds of fish into public streams, rivers, lakes and ponds across the state. Locally, several varieties of fish – including Chinook and coho salmon, steelhead and brown trout – are reared at the Salmon River Fish Hatchery in Altmar.

2133 Co. Rte. 22, Altmar NY

SALMON RIVER HATCHERY

Built in 1980, the Salmon River Fish Hatchery in Altmar stocks about 3.5 million trout and salmon each year. These include Chinook and coho salmon fingerlings and coho salmon and steelhead yearlings.

Fish are stocked in over 100 public waters, such as Lake Ontario, for two main purposes – to restore native species to waters they formerly occupied and to enhance recreational fishing. The hatchery now provides most of the fish for the multi-million dollar Lake Ontario fishery.

Weather permitting, the hatchery is open to the public from April 1 to Nov. 30. An annual open house takes place on the fourth Saturday in September. To learn more, go to www.dec.ny.gov/outdoor/21663.html or call 315.298.5051.

OSWEGO RIVER

Phoenix, Fulton, Minetto, Oswego, NY

Ranking as Lake Ontario's second largest tributary, the Oswego River stretches approximately 23 miles from its convergence with the Seneca and Oneida rivers at Three Rivers Point to the port of Oswego.

It offers two distinct fisheries – a natural fish habitat with limited human involvement south of the Varick Dam to Three Rivers Point and, from its mouth to the Varick Dam, year-round fishing adventure as Lake Ontario's various fish species move in and out with the seasons.

The fall run begins with king and coho salmon entering the river to spawn. By late October, the river also contains brown trout and hungry steelhead following the salmon's eggs. Plentiful all winter, brown trout and steelhead come to feed, bask in the river's warmer temperatures and spawn in the spring.

The cities of Fulton and Oswego have public fishing access along the river. In Fulton, there is a park with a hard surface launch ramp on the east side. In Oswego, a concrete walkway and railing line both sides of the river. Parking, restrooms and fish cleaning stations are also nearby.

Steelhead can be found up to the Varick Dam.

CRUISE INTO THE SUNSET

OSWEGO COUNTY has a long history as a major port and shipbuilding center. The industry thrived in the Oswego Harbor for more than 200 years with the building of schooners, tugboats, steamboats, canalboats and other boats. The oldest freshwater port in North America, the port of Oswego still welcomes ships from around the world as the first U.S. port of call on the Great Lakes.

With hundreds of lakes, rivers, streams and ponds, miles of shoreline and dozens of marinas and boat launches, Oswego County has countless water recreation opportunities for residents and visitors alike.

Enjoy the summer breeze on Oswego Harbor with an Oswego Sunset Tiki Tour. Each boat takes up to six people for a two-hour excursion led by a licensed captain. Guests are permitted to bring snacks and drinks onboard as they marvel at the famous Lake Ontario sunset. New in 2023, people can reserve a Tiki Party Dock. This provides a similar tropical experience and allows more guests to join the party as it stays docked at the marina.

Float back in time for a tour of the Oswego West Pierhead Lighthouse and learn about its history from knowledgeable guides. The boat departs from Wright's Landing Marina with up to six passengers. Offered by the H. Lee White Maritime Museum, the tours last approximately two hours including transit and give people the chance to enjoy breathtaking waterfront scenery while learning about the area's rich maritime heritage.

Captain your own boat into the sunset or rent a kayak for a harbor paddle. Launch into the north shore playland or experience the still waters of the reservoir. See p. 62 for information about marinas and launch sites to start your aquatic adventure.

For another view of the water, try "locking through" the Oswego Canal, part of the New York State Canal System. Boaters, kayakers and canoers alike enjoy this truly unique experience as well as the scenic vistas and friendly hospitality of the canal communities. See p. 64 for more information on the Oswego Canal.

Keep boating safety a top priority while exploring Oswego County's waters. Follow New York State boating laws, take a boating safety course, wear a personal flotation device and never use intoxicants while boating. Check the weather forecast before setting out and inform someone where you will be boating and when you plan to return.

See p. 62-63 for a list of marinas & boat launches.

THE OSWEGO CANAL

Phoenix, Fulton, Minetto, Oswego, NY

The Oswego Canal played a vital role in the settlement of Oswego County and early American history. After establishing the county in 1816, its leaders made completing the canal one of its first priorities. Completed in 1828, the Oswego Canal connected the Erie Canal to Great Lake Ontario and created a gateway to upper lake trade and migration.

Barges and packet boats carried farm products, commercial goods and passengers, as well as the innovations, ideas and the social movements that shaped 19th century America. Thousands of people worked in mills and factories along the canal which provided a means of escape for fugitive slaves and a strategic route for carrying supplies, arms and men in colonial wartime.

Over the years, the canal was reconstructed. Electronic machinery replaced hand-operated devices on the locks and today it is used primarily for recreation such as fishing, paddling and pleasure-boating.

CANAL COMMUNITIES

Various Locations Along Southwestern Oswego County NY

The current Oswego Canal opened in 1917 to align with the Oswego River, which flows north into Lake Ontario. It is 24 miles long with seven locks - interestingly, there is no Lock 4. From Oneida Lake, the canal passes through Phoenix, Fulton, Minetto and Oswego before merging with Great Lake Ontario.

The canal helped shape these communities by delivering people, goods and ideas at every stop and this bond remains strong today. Come celebrate the canal with various events, historical exhibits, museums and unique eateries.

“Lock through” the canal and explore the cities, towns and villages nestled along its banks. Learn about its heritage and revel in its architecture – from a former drawbridge in Phoenix to the sweet smell of chocolate in Fulton. From the industrial beauty of the Minetto Bridge to a 1925 canal boat in Oswego. Discover remnants of original canal locks and nourish your explorer spirit by dining canal-side. Enjoy hometown hospitality all along the Oswego Canal!

ONEIDA LAKE

Begin your journey on the historic Oswego Canal at Three Rivers Point, where the Oneida, Seneca and Oswego rivers all converge. The lakeside communities of Brewerton, Caughdenoy, Central Square, Hastings, Mallory, West Monroe, Constantia, Bernhard’s Bay and Cleveland all reflect the region’s colorful history, small town charm and beautiful vistas. See p. 66 to learn more about the Oneida Lake area.

They volunteer all summer to greet and help boaters with small errands such as grocery pick-ups, dog-walking and meal delivery from local restaurants. Visit the bridge house to learn about the former nearby drawbridge. Henley Park offers scenic respite and community events such as summer concerts. Heading toward Fulton, remnants of the old Erie Canal, including the former Hinmansville Lock, can be seen on the east bank of the Oswego River.

FULTON

The city of Fulton provides spectacular views of the Oswego Falls from the Oneida Street bridge. Explore a variety of restaurants, unique shops, beautiful parks and other amenities within walking distance of the canal. The Canal Landing Gazebo hosts free music and the CNY Arts Center is open for classes as well as browsing art displays, listening to concerts and watching theater performances.

YOU'LL FIND IT ALL ON THE NORTH SHORE

At Nearly 80 Square Miles,

Oneida Lake is the largest lake located entirely within New York State! Named for the Oneida Nation of the Iroquois League, the lake's rich heritage dates back thousands of years.

Learn about this early history at the Fort Brewerton / Oliver Stevens Blockhouse Museum. View historical artifacts and picnic on the earthen embankments of the original fort, which was shaped like an eight-pointed star positioned toward cardinal compass points.

An integral waterway for commerce, Oneida Lake's north shore was home to many prominent industries, including glass making. During the 19th century, much of the window glass in American homes was manufactured here. Local sand gave glass such an exceptional brilliance it was used by Corning Glass Works to make the lens for Palomar Observatory in California, once the world's largest telescope.

Known as the "Walleye Capital" of New York State, Oneida Lake remains a prime fishery. In the spring, these freshwater fish can be found in the lake's shallow waters near spawning areas and tributaries before heading out to deeper waters in the summer.

Walleye are the primary focus at NYSDEC's Oneida Lake Fish Culture Station in Constantia. Between 200 and 300 million eggs are collected and reared each year to stock the fishery with walleye fry and advanced fingerlings. The facility also cultivates tiger musky and works to restore rare or threatened fish species such as lake sturgeon. Other varieties of fish found in Oneida Lake include large and smallmouth bass, Northern pike and yellow perch.

In recent years, nationally televised fishing tournaments put Oneida Lake into homes across America, affirming the quality of this fishery. They include the Outdoor Channel's Ultimate Match College Tournament and ESPN's Bassmaster Memorial.

Charming restaurants, public and private water access sites, marinas and tackle shops all dot Oneida Lake's north shore, attracting water recreation enthusiasts from around the region. Motor out to Frenchman's Island to explore 28 acres of serene beauty, paddle in and out of dozens of coves along the shoreline or enjoy warm hospitality and a savory meal with refreshing lakeside views.

Motor up to enjoy waterfront dining with a brilliant sunset.

The Big Bay area freezes early and gives cold-weather anglers a great spot to find panfish.

BOATING

Part of the New York State Canal System, Oneida Lake offers boaters the chance to motor along the 21.5 mile historic Erie Canal from Sylvan Beach to Brewerton. There are also several launch sites and marinas available along the north shore and Oneida River channel for water access. See p. 62-23 for a full list of marinas.

SUNSETS

ONEIDA LAKE HATCHERY

Built in 1992, the NYSDEC Oneida Fish Cultural Station in Constantia annually produces about 6,000 pounds of fish to stock Oneida Lake and other public waters.

Walleye are the primary focus of the facility's rearing program. Every year, staff collect and cultivate anywhere from 200 to 300 million eggs from Oneida Lake to effectively stock the fishery with walleye fry and advanced fingerlings. The hatchery rears the statewide supply of tiger muskellunge (muskie) and works to restore rare or threatened fish species such as lake sturgeon, paddlefish and round whitefish.

The Oneida Lake Hatchery is open to the public from April 1 to September 30. For more information, call 315.623.7311.
